Tin Pan Annie Music, South London's leading pre-school music company, provides fun, exciting, interactive music classes designed to stimulate, educate and get the maximum benefits from music whilst having a great time!

Many nurseries across South London have recognized the benefits of Tin Pan Annie Music classes which include the development of concentration, listening, memory, language, mathematical ability, social skills, motor skills and more, alongside the encouragement of fitness through movement and dance. The skills the children learn at Tin Pan Annie Music help them through both their time at nursery school and beyond. Tin Pan Annie Music classes are also a fantastic foundation for learning a musical instrument.

By using our highly acclaimed curriculum, which has been developed over 15 years by child music education expert, Annie Houseago, we teach the children many basic musical concepts drawn from key stage one of the national curriculum alongside many actions songs and rhymes, most of which are guitar accompanied, and our colourful posters, props and stories – all of which are based around a simple weekly theme.

All of our teachers are specially trained, very talented musicians and singers who all have that special child charisma! Classes are divided into different age-appropriate groups.

The costs are as follows:
